FURTHER REVELATIONS

OF THE IMMIGRATION INVESTIGATION COMMITTEE.

How the Demand for Italian Laborers is Worked by Preco & Company—The Supply Inexhaustible—No Strikes—A Confidential Circular of the Firm.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The past week's investigation by Congressman Ford's committee has made the fact pretty plain to everybody that the poor laborers who arrive in this country without friends or money, and without a knowledge of our language or customs, become prey for sharks more voracious and cruel than any man-eater in southern seas. These sharks are known as employment agents, and, strange as it may appear, none of them are natives of this country.

As a rule the employment agents do not desire to have their methods of doing business laid bare to the light, although they are "licensed" by the mayor's marshal.

A reporter who had had some experience of the Italian employment agents' methods, came into possession the other day of a circular printed on typewriter, as follows:

"Legal counsel, S. D. Seward, 280 Broadway, labor; F. D. Preco & Company, office 181 Mulberry street, New York city. Skilled and unskilled laborers furnished for contractors.

"Special guarantees against strikes and labor disturbance. First-class references given upon application.

"NEW YORK, July 23, 1888.

"DEAR SIR—We beg to inform you that we are prepared to furnish to contractors, builders, railroad, mining and other companies, first-class laborers, either skilled or unskilled, as may be required, in any number, at short notice.

"By special arrangement which we make with the men furnished by us we are enabled to guarantee against any detention by strike or labor disturbance.

"We have had long and varied experience in the handling of foreign labor in this country, and can assure our customers good, efficient and industrious men, as we take particular care in selecting them. To any one desiring references as to our responsibility or experience in any particular branch, we will upon application, refer to those who have employed our services in similar work.

"If you should require anything in our line, we solicit the favor of a call from you, and believe we can fill your requirements satisfactorily. Yours respectfully,

"F. D. FRESCO & COMPANY."

The second paragraph of this ingenious circular appeals strongly to those employers who have had a satiety of strikes and who desire to be let alone to do their business in their own way.

"By special arrangement which we make with the men furnished by us, we are enabled to guarantee our customers against any detention by strike or other labor disturbance." Here was something so good that it ought not to be hidden away in Mulberry street. Whatever method the firm adopted should be public property. Knights of Labor and trades unionists, besides thousands of manufacturers, must all be anxious to know just how strikes and labor disturbances can be prevented and capitalists and laborers work together in harmony. This discovery should be known.

So reasoned the reporter. How find it out? If he went as a reporter the doors would be locked and doubled-barred. He could not disguise himself as an Italian emigrant as his Italian was limited to few phrases. There was only one thing left for him to do. He must become for the time an employer and decided that as an agent for a stone company, whose quarries were in Massachusetts, he might be able to play his part and discover for the good of the public so valuable a secret.

No 181 was reached, but the shutters were on the windows and a padlock was on the door. No name or sign board was on the place by which it could be identified. Investigation among the neighbors did not add much to the reporter's knowledge.

Perhaps the legal counsel of the firm would be able to tell the agent of the Massachusetts quarry where he could find Mr. Preco. Mr. S. D. Seward was found at Room 184, Stewart building. He was very polite, and informed his visitor that Mr. Preco was settling some trouble in Staten Island, but that he would be at his home, No. 182 Mott street, in the evening. Mr. Seward had no connection with Preco & Company, save to give advice and transact the law business of the firm when it got into difficulties. What those "difficulties" were, Mr. Seward did not say.

Mr. Preco was visited that evening by the agent of the Massachusetts firm, and Mr. Preco, when he learned the object of the visit, was effusive in his attentions. In very good English, although with a strong Italian accent, similar to that of the fruit vendors on the corners of the streets, the head of the firm entered at once into an exhaustive explanation of his business.

"I have a contract in Staten Island for the Baltimore & Ohio. You know they are building a road there. The other day some of the laborers wanted more wages, and were going to strike, but I told them I would pay them what they asked. I came to New York and got another gang, and the next day I told the others to go and get their wages, because I did not want them any more. When they try to bulldoze me I bulldoze them. I can get men for $1.10 to $1.25 a day; just as many as I want."

"How much will we have to pay you?" asked the visitor.

"I won't charge you anything. I want you to give me a house free, so that I can board the men. We will attend to them. You can tell us if any of them grumble or any are likely to strike, and we will put other men in their places. It won't cost you anything."

"How about wages? How much do the men want?"

"That is all right; I can supply men at any price. I have sent men to Pennsylvania for $1.10 a day. I do not send men to work for less than those already at work are getting. If there is a strike for more wages, I make an agreement for the old rate. If my men grumble I show them the agreement. If they do not like that they can go. I can get plenty more."

"But does it not cost you something every time?"

"Oh, no; the men pay their own fares, and I get something from them for my trouble. I do not care how many times they change."

Chairman Ford Bereaved.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Just as the congressional committee investigating matters relating to emigration was about to resume its session this morning, a telegram was handed Chairman Ford, announcing the sudden death in Michigan of his sister, Miss Esther Ford, while on her way to Duluth, Minnesota.

EX-GOVERNOR PORTER, OF INDIANA,

Says He Does Not Desire to Enter the Gubernatorial Race.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 31.—Ex-Governor A. G. Porter has informed Attorney General Michener and others that he will positively not be considered a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, and will not accept if it is offered. It is thought that either Gen. Lew Wallace or Congressman Steele, of Marion, will be second choice.

The following are extracts from Mr. Porter's letter to State Senator Henry N. Johnson, of Richmond:

"At the conference of the Lincoln League clubs in February last I stated in a public speech that I would not be a candidate before the Republican state convention for the office of governor, and that my name would not be presented to the convention. Several gentlemen were present, who were understood to desire the nomination, and the declaration was properly interpreted by them as being in the nature of a pledge that I would not stand in their way. I have never since said that I would be a candidate, but, on the contrary, have stated to many persons that I would not.

"I have taken an active part in every Republican campaign since the Republican party was organized, except one which occurred while I was holding office at Washington. After this long service the state convention will, I am sure, refrain from pressing upon me a candidacy to which I would be adverse and which I should feel obliged to decline. But while I shall not be a candidate, I shall not be indifferent to the success of the Republican party, nor shall my voice be silent in the important campaign in which it is about to enter. From the time the campaign shall begin until it shall have closed, by every effort that I can bestow, I shall give whatever aid I am able to secure the triumph of the Republican National ticket and the success of the candidates who shall be nominated at our state convention."

A SORRY SCANDAL.

The Pedestal of the Garfield Statue, Cincinnati, Still Unpaid for.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—The Garfield statue now rests upon a pedestal not yet fully paid for. There is a pathetic side to the story, too—far more than enough money was raised by popular subscriptions to wipe out the debt that remained.

Seventeen hundred dollars was subscribed to pay off that balance and in consideration of the fact, the trustees of the fund allowed the citizens' committee to assume charge of the attendant dedicatory exercises. There was a grand parade Music by dozens of bands! Crowded streets! Oratory by Mayor Smith and others at Music hall! But it was a display that cost lots of money.

Fourteen hundred dollars of the popular subscriptions that were intended by the donors to help pay for the pedestal were swallowed up in paying for the bands, the gay paraphernalia of the celebrants and Music hall. Three hundred dollars were turned over to the trustees with the cool announcement, "That is all there is left."

A debt of over $1,000 remains and no one seems willing to pay it.

The trustees of the pedestal fund claim that Mayor Smith is under obligations to pay the balance; that it was with that understanding that they turned the arrangements over to the mayor and his committee. The mayor blandly says the trustees have no written guarantee from him to that effect.

The contractor, Martin Donohue, cannot lose his money and the wholesale folks who let him have the granite on the trustees' note are pushing him. Neither he nor the granite people desire to take possession of the pedestal, but as there is no prospect of their just bill being paid they cannot wait much longer.

The trustees recommend that the mayor be sued. The mayor gives the advice, free gratis for nothing, that if he had been the granite folks he would have sued the trustees long ago. The people who subscribed to the pedestal, but as there is no prospect of their just bill being paid they cannot wait much longer.

A Chicago Man Has a Close Call.

CHICAGO, July 31.—When John Burgess left his home this morning, he little dreamed what a close call for his life he was to have before he reached his place of employment. Burgess had got down as far as 104 Clark street and was walking rapidly along the sidewalk, when a large fragment of rock fell from the fifth story. The stone grazed the man's forehead, striking the brim of his hat and knocking it off. It struck his foot, smashing the limb to pieces. The stone, when picked up, was found not to be less than fifty pounds weight. Burgess was taken to the hospital. No one could explain how the fragment came detached from the building.

Mormon Elders Flogged.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 31.—The Mormon elders, Franklin, Murray and Jones Fallon, who were driven out of Muhlenburg county, Kentucky, and fled to Rome, Ind., with the two women converts, were on Friday night taken to the woods by a band of White Caps and all except one of the women flogged until they fainted. They were then ordered to leave the country at once. The victims are now at the house of Mrs. Thomas, where they lie in a critical condition.

THIRTY MOLDERS STRIKE

IN J. W. FOLEY'S MACHINE WORKS, CINCINNATI,

Because the Shop Committee was Discharged—All the Mills in the Mahoning Valley, With One Exception, Sign the Amalgamated Scale.

CINCINNATI, July 31.—About thirty machine molders are out on a strike at J. W. Foley's machine works, 833 to 837 West Front street. The proprietor discharged the shop committee, Robert Schorr, because he had told the men they could not work under $15 a week. Hence the strike.

The men who are out all belong to Iron Molder's union No. 4. President Fitzpatrick, of the National union; John J. Weaver, of the executive committee, and President Catton, of the local union, have called on Foley and demanded the return of Schorr, the shop committee, and the payment of the regular union wages, $18 a week, to all alike. Foley is said to have expressed himself as bound to pay what he pleases. If a man was worth $8 or $8.50 a day, he would pay it, and if he was only worth $2.50 a day he would only pay that. It is expected that the fifty molders in the works belonging to Union No. 122 will go out on Foley's refusal to reinstate Schorr. Dennis Callahan is the foreman who hired the men at less than union wages and advised Schorr's discharge.

DEMOCRATS of Boyle County have instructed for Hon. James B. McCreary for Congress.

THERE can be no excuse for any Democrat failing to vote for the nominee for Sheriff. Let every vote be polled.

THE Lawrence Creek Democratic club was addressed last evening by Mr. Thos. R. Phister. If the rest of the county does as well for the party as Charleston Bottom and Lawrence Creek, Mr. Forman will be snowed clear out of sight next Monday.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer considers New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana as certain Democratic States, and places Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa in the doubtful list on the Republican side. The Democrats are at work in the Northwest, and Republicans are coming out openly for Cleveland and Thurman.

GENERAL ALGER, of Michigan, is said to have given one hundred thousand dollars to the Republican corruption fund. He could well afford to give ten times that to secure the success of the party of "protection." He has made millions off of the high tariff on lumber, while many people out west are compelled to live in "mud houses."

"WHEN the Republicans were in power," says an exchange, "they put raw silk on the free list. That afforded the rich cheap clothing, and we heard nothing about its being free trade, but now that the Democrats have passed the Mills bill, placing wool on the free list in order that the poor may have cheaper clothing, every little political economist in the land of the protectionist persuasion is shrieking free trade. According to the Republican gospel, cheap silk for the rich is protection, but cheap woolens for the poor is free trade. Bosh."

THREE of the most active Republicans in Kentucky just now are Judge Denny and Colonels Bradley and Swope. They are cavorting around over the State speechmaking on every occasion that offers. In referring to the matter, "Rambler" of the Lexington Transcript, says:

Speaking about sacrifices it is a truly pathetic and moving spectacle to see the way in which Swope, Denny and Billy O'Bradley are going about the country affected with politico-emotional lassitude and making speeches at the cross roads telling the colored man and brother how Democratic tariff reform is going to plunge him into poverty. They don't expect to carry the State for Harrison and Morton, though they swear they do, but they live in hopes that there will be a triumph for their end of the National teetotal board, and that if the g. o. p. goes in next March, they can march up to the Harrison kitchen and demand the Kentucky plum as their share of the patronage pudding.

It will be well, however, for Democrats to keep their eyes on this trio. They all have oily tongues.

Unscrupulous Methods.

Mr. John T. Short, who has been promised a deputyship under Mr. Forman in case the latter is elected Sheriff, started out yesterday on an electioneering tour. Before the day closed he was heard from in the neighborhood of Lewisburg, where he was circulating a story that "the Democrats here in Maysville had given up the fight, and that even Sheriff Dan Perrine was in the lower end of the county working against Mr. Alexander." There is not a semblance of truth in the statement. More than that it is absurd and preposterous on its very face. The Democrats of this city are actively at work, and are confident of victory.

Bets were offered yesterday of $100 to $80 that Mr. Alexander would be elected, but no Republican could be found to take them. That doesn't look much like the Democrats have given up.

Sheriff Perrine is justly indignant that such a story should be circulated about him, and characterizes it as a malicious lie. No one who knows him would listen for a moment to such a statement. If Mr. Short circulated such a story—and the BULLETIN has reliable information that he did—it shows that he is unscrupulous in his methods and not a fit person to aspire to such a position as Mr. Forman has promised him.

A PROMINENT CONVERT

Judge C. H. Krum, a Life-long Republican of St. Louis, Leaves the Party.

He Delivers a Telling Address for Cleveland and Thurman and Tariff Reform.

The St. Louis correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Judge Chester H. Krum, a leading citizen of St. Louis and a life-long Republican, delivered a tariff reduction speech Friday night before a crowded house in response to an invitation of the Twenty-second ward Democratic club. The Judge is about forty-five years old, one of the ablest lawyers of the city, and sat six years on the Circuit Bench, to which he was elected by the Republican party. His father was ex-Mayor John M. Krum, who was famous in the early history of the city. The speaker said at the opening of his address:

"One who has been a Republican ever since he became a voter appears before you to-night to evidence his withdrawal from the party of his former affiliation. Having no ulterior purpose and having taken this step after serious deliberation, he hopes that his utterances will be received as frank, candid and truthful experiences of carefully considered thought upon matters of National significance."

"The great issue of the campaign compared with which all others were insignificant was, he said, the tariff question. As to civil service reform both parties favored it, but were loudest in commanding it when not in power. After reading the tariff planks of the Republican platform, Judge Krum said: 'Such is the platform of the Republican party, and the people are ashamed to give it their support. But, gentlemen, no citizen of the United States ought to approve such an astounding declaration of party principles. From every standpoint of free government and public economy it is the most atrocious party utterance which has been made in the history of American politics. It finds extenuation neither in necessity nor concern for the public welfare. It is based upon no substantial foundation. It is subversive of well-established principles of political economy. It finds no sanction in the constitution. Its sole purpose is to maintain upon the statutes of the United States laws which necessities of actual war created, but which can now, by so-called protection, benefit less than three millions of people who happen to be its favored recipients only at the expense of over forty-two millions, who are expected to remain quiescent and unwilling victims of unjust and unnecessary tariff discriminations.'

"He referred to the Republican platform four years ago and called attention to the marked difference between it and the present one, and then spoke of the dangers of the large surplus in the National Treasury, saying: 'The war tariff hangs over this country like a vast incubus. The growth of its accumulations in the treasury has been insidiously sapping the life-blood of American industries. Like some deadly vampire of fable, the war tariff of 1864 is draining the veins of its victims, while its wings of protection are lulling them into repose.'

"He next dwelt on President Cleveland's tariff reform message and the Democratic platform, laying stress on the fact that neither the message or platform favored free trade, but only a reduction in the war tariff, which was ruining the country. He analyzed the Mills bill, and gave it his support. The Judge spoke for two hours, and as he is a fine speaker he made an excellent impression, being interrupted time and again by applause.

"This makes the second prominent St. Louis Republican who has announced his intention to support Cleveland and Thurman on account of the tariff question. The first was N. O. Nelson, elected to the City Council three years ago on the Republican ticket. He is the head of the N. O. Nelson Manufacturing Company, which employs several hundred hands, all of whom share in the profits of the concern."

Ben Harrison's Utterances.
"Have you a right, while you are breaking the law, to appear before a committee of law-abiding citizens with an appeal to redress the wrongs you claim to be suffering from?"

This is what Ben Harrison said to a committee of railroad "strikers," July 26th, 1877.

"Were I the Governor, I'd force those men back to work or shoot them on the spot." The above is what Ben Harrison, the Republican candidate for President, said in a speech in 1877, in regard to the men who were engaged in the great railroad strike of that year. And yet, the Republicans tell us what a great friend of the laboring men General Harrison is. Friends of the working people don't generally make use of such language as the above.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of Mrs. Jemima Honsh, who departed this life at her home in Aberdeen, O., July 14th, 1888.

Sleep, dear mother, take thy rest,
Let no care disturb thee now,
Folded hands upon thy breast,
Sleep till God recalls his own.

Now our hearts and homes are dear—
Many sorrows have been thine,
Peace be thine forever more,
Over that golden shore.

Now our hearts and homes are dear—
How we miss thy loving smile,
How thy gentle voice did cheer
None but God and angels know.

Thou hast joined thy loved ones dear,
Thou art happy now with them;
Thou wilt watch for loved ones here
Till we meet with thee on high.

Flannel is still the favorite stuff for tennis and yachting costumes, but serge Jersey cloth is preferred by the dressers, if expense is no object.

It is well to remember that blouses of washing silk must be ironed always on wrong side, and care taken that the iron be warm rather than hot.

From Paris comes the mournful news that the busie has a new lease of life, and is likely to die hard, if it dies at all, before the oncoming of the Empire gown.

The Gabrielle gown grows more and more the rage, and some of the latest have hardly a definition of waist and but the barest suspicion of drapery in front.

The mustache brush of fine camel's hair, in shape like small bat-brush, with back of hammered silver, is a favorite gift now from the groom to his best man.

Amber is once more the rage, and a napkin ring of mottled amber, or a cigar holder of the clear stuff, is among the newest attractions of good jewelers' windows.

Very wide ribbons now appear in the loopings of lace net and illusion gowns, and rich, graceful knots with fringed ends are far and away better style than any sort of bow.

AN ARTFUL DODGER.

How Hon. W. O. Bradley was Caught At His Own Game.

A special from Frankfort, says: "Hon. W. O. Bradley has shown the white feather in the attempt to get a division of time in his address here Tuesday night with Hon. John S. Rhea. As he refused the proposition, the Democrats got out posters announcing Mr. Rhea's intention to address a meeting in the court house Wednesday night. One hour after the posters were on the streets, the Republicans issued another poster stating that Mr. Bradley would speak Thursday night. Not to allow Mr. Bradley the chance of speaking after Mr. Rhea, especially when he had shown a disposition to unfairness, in his refusal to divide time, and when it was known how reckless he is with facts and figures, the Democrats wired Mr. Rhea to ascertain if he could change his time to next Friday instead of Wednesday night. Mr. Rhea was absent from his home, but his wife patriotically replied that it would be all right; that her husband would be here Friday night and prepared to answer anything Mr. Bradley may charge the Democrats with. Now let Mr. Bradley keep his engagement, or acknowledge his fear of the Democratic elector-at-large, for the elector and his friends mean business, and mean to pin Mr. Bradley down to truth and fairness."
